

Starting in April 2018, the a.r.t.e.s. Graduate School for the Humanities Cologne, the Graduate School of the Faculty of Arts and Humanities of the University of Cologne, will award

9 doctoral scholarships

over a period of three years.

The a.r.t.e.s. Graduate School – successful in the German Universities Excellence Initiative – provides a valuable opportunity to pursue a doctorate through a structured doctoral model of intensive supervision and interdisciplinary research. Seeking to bridge the disciplinary divide between the humanities and the natural sciences, a.r.t.e.s. focuses on the complex intersections between language, history, culture, mediality, anthropology, and ethics.

Please send in applications by November 3, 2017 (application receipt).
