

INTRODUCTION TO CHRISTIANITY

32-Hour Course
IN-PERSON

This course offers a survey of Christian thought from its origins to the present. Through the reading of a wide range of primary texts – encompassing different historical periods, literary genres, polemical concerns, and religious sensibilities – this course demonstrates the diversity within Christianity. This course also provides an academic study of Christianity within the wider context of other religions and worldviews in a pluralistic and interdependent world. The course does not presume a familiarity with Christianity in any of its manifestations, and students can expect to develop a critical analysis in this religion from a variety of perspectives.
