

CERTIFICATE IN CHRISTIAN STUDIES

The certificate seeks to provide an interdisciplinary overview of Christianity. Students will study Christianity in an academic environment from a historical and humanities-based perspective. The certificate has been developed in the spirit of ecumenism, bringing together four institutions with a long history of dialogue and collaboration. In turn, the courses are designed with a pluralistic approach in mind and with the intent of welcoming students from diverse backgrounds.

The Certificate in Christian Studies represents an historic partnership between the University of Windsor and its federated and affiliated colleges, namely Assumption University, Canterbury College, and Iona College.

This certificate consists of 6 university-level courses and provides an opportunity to take the courses in one of two ways:

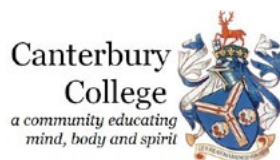

- Non-credit option which includes 1 final assignment, or
- Credit Option which includes an academic credit toward Assumption University.
